

Feb 1st 2012

Dear Parents,

Winter may not have shown up outside, but we sure had fun in Jan. learning about it in the classroom. Because reading books is something to do on a cold winter day, we thought it would be fun to spend the month of Feb. learning about children's author Eric Carle. Carle not only writes the words for his stories, but also does the art work. We will have fun checking out his style, and seeing if we can put together our own story.

Valentine's Day Party will be a simple one. The children will be delivering the valentines they bring in to their friends' valentine boxes and having a special treat. There are 19 children in each session. Please help your child write their name on the back of each Valentine card. This will make the passing out of the cards easier. Activities will begin at 10AM for the morning program and 2:30 PM for the afternoon program.

Scholastic book orders are coming home with this letter. Please return with your check by Feb 10th.

For those of you who have asked, we hope to be welcoming back Mrs. Carter this month. She thanks you for your well-wishes.
